Alcoholics Anonymous Catch Phrases

Who among us isn't tired of hearing "One day at a time", or Keep It Simple, or maybe Think Through The Drink. Well, let's examine one of them for just a moment. "Think through the drink", if done completely has a great chance of keeping us from that first drink, and as you all know, the first one is the killer of all drinks. So, let's say I decide to take that first drink or drug, I'm going to spend a lot of money by the end of the evening, I'm going to get into some kind of trouble, maybe with the police and maybe get a DUI. With the general public, maybe get beat up, certainly with our families. Then we are going to wake up broke with a whopping hangover, in all kinds of trouble and wondering why we took that first drink when it could have been prevented if only we thought through that first drink, called our sponsor or another AA person, or even just going to a meeting instead of drinking. THINK THROUGH THE DRINK!

A BIG MAHALO to all those who made the THANKSGIVING ALCO-THON POSSIBLE. For the giant traditional feast, the set up of the time and place, the time slot scheduling, the great deserts, salads and casseroles, and to all those who provided a safe haven for us AAers during the holiday.

We have a CHRISTMAS ALCO-THON coming up in December so check out our next issue for date, time and location.

Frick and Frack, a couple of extremely logical carpenters, were building a house. They each went and bought a keg of nails, but stopped at the local pub for a couple of brews on the way home. Back at the site, Frick began throwing every other nail away and told Frack the the point on the odd nails were pointed the wrong way! Frack looked at him and said, You silly man, those are for the OTHER side of the house! Hmmm
